The question has always been asked why Africa, so rich in resources, is very poor in income and material well-being.

David Sseppuuya argues that a major reason is the continent's failure to turn its natural capital into productive capital.

This problem is rooted in the structure of Africa's economies, which needs to change if the nations and their people are to enjoy real prosperity.

In this book the author tells a story of the rulers of Bunyoro-Kitara. Through the ages they appropriated to themselves the country's resources at the populations' expense. Greed characterizes the entire spectrum of Nyoro rulers from the early queens (Abagole), the Musaza priest (Abamasaza or Batembuzi), the Bacwezi kings that wielded immense ritual authority, the Babiito secular kings, the colonial governors and the current neocolonialist presidents. The story which the author narrates started with climate changes that set in motion what climatologists have named the Little Ice Age. Snow caps on the Rwenzori mountain tops between 1300 and 1400 AD, melted during an era of unprecedented climate change. Unpredictable weather resulted in social upheavals and violent rulers emerged. They were desperate at managing communities that suffered shortage of pasture and water. Communities were embroiled in inter clan wars and famine. Oral tales speak of gross abuses of human rights and gender inequalities. Repressive rule of despots was captured in tall metaphors that describe the rulers as wonder workers. These are legends of demigods which the author treats as historical source materials. Omucwezi Ndahura for instance is said to have dug crater lakes which geologists tell us were formed by volcanic eruptions. In this book these legends are examined for the historical content. Out of a careful study of these traditions the author draws out of these metaphors historical content on which the author uses to reconstruct Bunyoro and her interlucustrine neighbors' history of turmoil which climate changes caused. The book is enriched with stories of clan affiliations evident in shared totems that ensued and were the foundations of African state formation. Throughout their history the Banyoro have lived through struggles over pastures, water, arable lands, salt, ivory, livestock, agricultural produce and mineral wealth and in our own time they expect to see barrels of oil recently discovered in their lands and the inescapable environmental consequences. This book gives meaning to ancient items of Nyoro regalia that missionaries of the colonial era dismissed as Satanic and shows their values as symbols of management of Nyoro societies.

$ 25.00 / PB

206gm.

On 17th March 2000 Ugandans awoke to the tragic news that more than 800 members of the Movement of the Restoration of the Ten Commandments of God (MRTCG) had been burnt to death in their church building in Kanungu, then in Rukungiri District, South Western Uganda. Was it an accident or suicide? Did the members know that they would die? Was it planned by the cult leaders? Who was behind this atrocious act?

The Kanungu Tragedy sets out to address these and more questions. The book is an attempt to reveal the findings about the MRTCG, especially the brutality involved in the total destruction of the cult. It is a straightforward narration of the findings about the inferno and the related discoveries of dead bodies in mass graves scattered in various locations in Kampala, Bushenyi and Rukungiri.

Uganda Vision 2040 / (Foreword) Yoweri Kaguta Museveni (President of the Republic of Uganda)
Kampala: National Planning Authority, 2013 xvi, 120p.
$ 30.00/ PB
328gm.

The National Planning Authority in consultation with other government institutions and other stakeholders developed a Uganda Vision 2040 to operationalize this Vision statement and it was launched on 18th April 2013.

Uganda Vision 2040 builds on the progress that has been made in addressing the strategic bottlenecks that have constrained Uganda's socio-economic development since her independence, including; ideological disorientation, weak private sector, underdeveloped human resources, inadequate infrastructure, small market, lack of industrialization, underdeveloped services sector, under-development of agriculture, and poor democracy, among others.

It is conceptualized around strengthening the fundamentals of the economy to harness the abundant opportunities around the country. The opportunities include; oil and gas, tourism, minerals, ICT business, abundant labour force, geographical location and trade, water resources, industrialization, and agriculture.

On the other hand, the fundamentals include: infrastructure for (energy, transport, water, oil and gas. The implementation of Vision 2040 will depend on the actions and measures that we undertake as Government, private sector, civil society and as individuals through short and medium-term National Development Plans.

Positioning Africa for the 21st Century : The Pivotal Role of Leadership and Think Tanks / Dr. James Magara

Kampala: Beeranga Mwesigwa Foundation, 2017

250p.

Includes Index ; Bibliography

9789970556045

$ 20.00 / PB

326gm.

Positioning Africa for the 21st Century takes the reader through a journey of policy and decision making in Africa. It features case studies of Botswana, Malaysia, South Korea and Singapore illustrating the role leadership and think tanks played in their development. It explores the different roles think tanks can play in fostering Africa's rapid development, and advocates for a different leadership paradigm from the one that has characterized Africa in the last sixty years. This book is a clarion call for current and emerging African leaders to avoid mirroring the mistakes of the past six decades and rise to the challenge of taking Africa to its preferred future.

This is the long awaited, revised and illustrated edition of Kings of Disaster, the study of the Rainmakers of the Nilotic Sudan that is in many ways a breakthrough in anthropological thinking on African political systems. Taking his inspiration from René Girard's theory of consensual scapegoating, the author shows that the longstanding distinction of states and stateless societies as two fundamentally different political types does not hold. Centralized and segmentary systems only differ in the relative emphasis put on the victim role of the king as compared with that of enemy. Kings of Disaster thus proposes an uninvolved solution to the vexed problem of regicide.

Uganda, Africa and Israel : Prophetic Implications of Historical, Geographical and Divine Connections / David Sseppuuya
Kampala: Beeranga Mwesigwa Foundation, 2016

The place of Israel in the modern world is one that confuses many, be they believers or otherwise. What do Goshen, Entebbe '76, Uasin-Gishu, the Prime Meridian, and the Nile Delta have to do with each other? Is Israel simply a historical relic, limited to the Old Testament in the Bible? Is the modern State of Israel simply a usurper? Do modern-day Jews in Israel and the Diaspora have any relationship with the ones mentioned in scripture? What is the place of other countries, particularly African nations, in the past and present-day status of Israel? Using contemporary, historical, geographical and scriptural insights, David Sseppuuya attempts to answer these questions and point to what the Lord had in mind when He pronounced Israel His first-born nation.
