Classical Chinese garden design, which seeks to recreate natural landscapes in miniature, is nowhere better illustrated than in the four gardens in the historic city of Suzhou. They are universally acknowledged to be masterpieces of the genre. Dating from the 16th-18th centuries, they reflect in their meticulous design the profound metaphysical importance of natural beauty in Chinese culture.

[Chinese bird-and-flower painting is the greatest contribution Chinese artists have made to the world of art. Apart from being an independent genre with its aesthetic values, Chinese bird-and-flower painting can be taken as a basic course for studying composition, brushwork and ink- a necessary preparation for the creation of all genres of Chinese painting. Specially prepared for Western readers, this manual with 250 colour illustrations is a step-by-step course of Chinese bird-and-flower painting. A brief history of this great art tradition is included in the manual.]

"This is an excellent and versatile textbook, as well as an intervention in the scholarly debate on the Asian economies. During the last few years Lim has paid particular attention to China, realizing that the Chinese and Japanese economies are complementary and dependent on each other. The chapters are free-standing, which makes it easier to use the book as a text, as the instructor can be selective, if needed."

[This book is intended to reconsider the ethos of Chinese culture against the status quo of China and the world today, and with a particular reference to the human condition in the context of globalization and its challenges. It features an engaging and in-depth discussion about such nations as heaven-and-human oneness, harmonization without being patternized, and happiness in philosophies and religions, among others. All this is applied not merely to the development of cultural ideals, social norms, human relations and even world outlooks, but also to the formation of thinking strategies, personal cultivation, aesthetic contemplation, and spiritual nourishment, etc.,]
