Merchants were central to the huge growth in China's foreign trade and contributed to the development of world markets and networks. Merchants of Canton and Macao: Success and Failure in Eighteenth-Century Chinese Trade brings together much new research about the inner workings of the merchants of Canton and Macao. The book studies in detail the leading Chinese merchants and merchant families as well as the porcelain and silk trades. By examining the successes and failures of dozens of Chinese merchants involved in foreign trade, it provides fresh insights into China's unique form of capitalism and her role in the rise of global commerce.

Van Dyke's conclusions on the nature of Qing policy towards foreign trade are bold, original and supported by intensive research. In contrast to the traditional focus on British and American trade, his research draws on archives in multiple languages, spread around the world.

This volume provides the first comparative survey of the relations between the two most active book worlds in Eurasia between 1450 and 1850. Prominent scholars in book history explore different approaches to publishing, printing, and book culture. They discuss the extent of technology transfer and book distribution between the two regions and show how much book historians of East Asia and Europe can learn from one another by raising new questions, exploring remarkable similarities and differences in these regions' production, distribution, and consumption of books.

The chapters in turn show different ways of writing transnational comparative history. Whereas recent problems confronting research on European books can instruct researchers on East Asian book production, so can the privileged role of noncommercial publications in the East Asian textual record highlight for historians of the European book the singular contribution of commercial printing and market demands to the making of the European printed record. Likewise, although production growth was accompanied in both regions by a wider distribution of books, woodblock technology's simplicity and mobility allowed for a shift in China of its production and distribution sites farther down the hierarchy of urban sites than was common in Europe. And, the different demands and consumption practices within these two regions' expanding markets led to different genre preferences and uses as well as to the growth of distinctive female readerships. A substantial introduction pulls the work together and the volume ends with an essay that considers how these historical developments shape the present book worlds of Eurasia.

DRAFTING TRUSTS AND WILL TRUSTS IN HONG KONG / James Kessler, Thelma Kwan, Philip Munro
Hong Kong : Sweet and Maxwell, 2016
9789626618639

Written by James Kessler QC, Thelma Kwan and Philip Munro, this title offers an extensive selection of trust precedents to suit a wide range of requirements, and helps to ensure that practitioners prepare accurate and effective trust documents which precisely meet client requirements and reflect the current law and practice.

This first edition is based on James Kessler's Drafting Trusts and Will Trusts – A Modern Approach, 11th edition (UK). The intention is for it to be an aid to the Hong Kong drafter, discussing the variety of issues which commonly arise when drafting Hong Kong trust documents.

The title, published in both print and ProView eBook versions, provides a set of precedents written in plain legal English for the different types of trusts and certain ancillary documents governed by Hong Kong law, together with a detailed commentary on the text of those precedents.

Features include:

- Precedents
- Practical guidance on the current law
- Detailed commentary on the recent changes to the Trustee Ordinance (Cap 29) and other trust-related laws
- Legal Analysis
- Information on the various types of trusts including discretionary trusts and charitable trusts

CAYMAN ISLANDS COMPANY AND COMMERCIAL LAW

Hong Kong : Sweet and Maxwell, 2015
9789626617700

The use of offshore vehicles for international financial transactions is becoming more and more popular in the Asia Pacific region. Among them the Cayman Islands is now the hot jurisdiction for offshore companies and commercial work, as well as the choice now to set up an offshore financial center.

The Cayman Islands has positioned itself as the number one destination for offshore legal operations. It is the market leader in the formation of mutual funds – estimated to house about 75% of world's hedge funds and nearly half the industry's estimated US$1.1 trillion of asset under management followed by Bermuda. This is evidenced by the fact that Hong Kong tycoon, Mr. Li Ka-Shing, unveiled in January 2015 a sweeping restructuring of his business empire, switching its base of incorporation to the Cayman Islands from Hong Kong for more flexibility in re-organization.

Cayman Islands Company and Commercial Law is:

- The first Cayman Islands Commercial Law publication for offshore companies and commercial work in the market

- Published by Conyers Dill & Pearman, the leading offshore law firm in the Cayman Islands with offices in Hong Kong, Singapore, London and Dubai.
- A comprehensive coverage of latest policies set by CIMA, and summaries a number of important recent cases decided by the Cayman Islands Courts in connection with shareholder rights, directors' duties, and insolvency

The Cayman Islands vehicles involved all aspects of international commercial transactions including: private equity, IPOs, mergers & acquisitions, and corporate finance transactions. This publication will also cover recent trends in Cayman Islands company law including IPOs of Cayman Islands companies and "go private" transactions.

THE HONG KONG COMPANIES ORDINANCE (CAP. 622): COMMENTARY & ANNOTATIONS, 2ND EDITION

Hong Kong : Sweet and Maxwell, 2015

2v.

9789626617472

$ 450.00 (Set) /HB

The Second Edition of the Companies Ordinance: Commentary Annotations examines and explores the new law's effect on Hong Kong within this critical first year of implementation, highlighting those new changes that have since been applied to all Hong Kong and overseas companies.

Highlights of the changes to corporate governance, commonly raised issues and effects caused by the application include:

- Section 388 and Schedule 5: new requirement for companies to prepare a business review as part of their directors duties;
- Section 388(3): criteria to claim exemption from preparing the now required business review accompanying the director's report;
- Section 465 and Part 11: new standard of director's and company's duty of care, skill and diligence;
- Sections 359, 361, and 364: facilitate SMEs to prepare simplified financial and director report as intended to facilitate business opportunities;
- Cap. 622B: new subsidiary legislation setting out the requirements for disclosure of company name and liability status as to provide protections for all persons and entities dealing with a company;
- How abolishing former mandatory requirements of memorandum of association (sections 67 and 98), the company seal (section 124), and par value of shares (section 135) has facilitated and improved incorporation and operation of companies;
- If the new sets of model articles for adoption in whole or in part by companies incorporated after 3 March 2014 have made it more attractive for companies.

One year from its enactment, the (new) Companies Ordinance (Cap. 622) continues to be the most important piece of legislation enacted by Hong Kong since the handover in 1997. Cap. 622 is one of the largest pieces of legislation enacted by the Legislative Council and no business entity is excluded from the newly enacted provisions of law. Every lawyer, practitioner, academic, as well as company secretary, concerned with Company Law in Hong Kong needs a copy of this two-volume set on their desk!

INVESTOR PROTECTION IN CAPITAL MARKETS - THE CASE OF HONG KONG / Shen Wei

Hong Kong : Sweet and Maxwell, 2015
9789626617564
$ 190.00 / PB

Investor Protection in Capital Markets – The Case of Hong Kong focuses on the regulatory protections available to public investors who have decided to invest their money and trust in Hong Kong listed companies. This book investigates and expands upon the procedures, regulations, and enforcement mechanisms put in place to ensure investors are given adequate protection for their monies invested, with the objective to provide the public with transparent and sufficient investment information.

This publication applies the investor protection benchmarks as set out in the: (new) Companies Ordinance (Cap.622), Securities and Futures Ordinance (Cap.571), and Main Board (or General Enterprise Market (GEM) Listing Rules.

The publication not only analyzes regulation of issuers through the disclosure regime, regulation of intermediaries, and regulation of market misconducts but also the heatedly debated issues related to the Lehman Brothers' minibonds saga and Alibaba's controversial dual-share structure.

Bribery and Corruption Law in Hong Kong 3rd Edition /Ian McWalters
Hong Kong : LexisNexis, 2015
9789888301294
$ 340.00 / HB

The third edition provides a continuing update of bribery and corruption law in Hong Kong. The jurisprudence relating to the common law offence of misconduct in public office continues to grow as the offence is more frequently employed by prosecutors against abuses of their office by public officials not involving bribery. Recent case law which helps to define the parameters of the offence is discussed. In order to make the book a more practical tool for legal professionals, the Prevention of Bribery Ordinance (Cap 201) and the Independent Commission Against Corruption Ordinance (Cap 204) are included.

Most people suppose that the whole world knows what it is to love; that romantic love is universal, quintessentially human. Such a supposition has to be able to meet three challenges. It has to justify its underlying assumption that all cultures mean the same thing by the word 'love' regardless of language. It has to engage with the scholarly debate on whether or not romantic love was invented in Europe and is uniquely Western. And it must be able to explain why early twentieth-century Chinese writers claimed that they had never known true love, or love by modern Western standards. By addressing these three challenges through a literary, historical, philosophical, biographical and above all comparative approach, this highly original work shows how love's profile in China shifted with the rejection of arranged marriages and concubinage in favour of free individual choice, monogamy and a Western model of romantic love.

Series - Sheng Kung Hui : Historical Studies of Anglican Christianity in China
 $ 55.00 / HB
 520gm.

As the longest serving and the most influential bishop of Hong Kong during one of the most tumultuous periods in China's history, Bishop R. O. Hall played a crucial role in the reconstruction of the Anglican Church and Hong Kong after the Second World War. Born in England, the bishop committed his life to building bridges: between China and England; between Hong Kong workers and company management; between the government and the Hong Kong people; and, of course, between the Hong Kong people he loved and the Divine he worshipped.

His single-mindedness in pursuing and translating the social theology of F. D. Maurice into practical terms resulted in his enormous contributions to the development of social welfare, low-cost housing, and education in postwar Hong Kong and helped spur its economic and social evolution into a global city.

This book highlights the two major controversies during his episcopacy: the ordination of a woman priest during the war and his visit to China during the "Hundred Flowers Campaign."

Based on primary archival and private materials, this book shows that Bishop Hall, whole-hearted in pursuit of his goals for Hong Kong through “love-in-action,” was also multifaceted, with longings, questions, and inner contradictions we all share.
