[Architects and disasters is the product of international collaboration of numerous academicians and architects for disasters. It aims to raise awareness, particularly among architects, for disasters and draw attention to the responsibility of architects for providing safe built environments. It also proposes to attain this goal by means of an educational activity, namely a Summer School for architecture students.

Thus, UIA Summer School 2004 was organized by the UIA Work Programme 'Urban Settlements and Natural or Other Disasters' in Izmir with the purpose of establishing a vision for safety as an indispensable factor in architectural design and to enhance the circulation of knowledge across as many countries as possible.

This book contains the variety of topics that have been presented at the Summer School and the products obtained by the application of the knowledge accumulated in the process of learning. It is expected that, this publication will encourage architects to take an active role in disasters and enable sharing of information for the prevention of catastrophes.]

[This book has been designed in the form of a guidebook to Sinan's buildings in Istanbul, taking a route that begins at the heart of the old walled city. The city is divided into six separate sections, with maps at the beginning of each, so it simple to locate the buildings and see their relative positions to one another. In the course of an enjoyable tour through the most fascinating areas of the city you will see how Sinan's creative genius set its mark on the development of Ottoman architecture and influenced his successors.]

[Tenedos collection exhibition building of Tenedos Local History Research Center was built shortly after the fire of 1874. It was the best looking and tallest of the buildings constructed at that time. The four-story building was constructed by Dimosten Tulmidi who has passed away in 1917 in Tenedos. Original as well as half columns decorating the side walls of the ground floor. Building was passed on to a niece, Pinelopi, as a wedding gift during her marriage to vasil Izvingo. The five children of this couple moved away to Australia begin 1950s. Shortly after top two floors of the abandoned and neglected building was demolished, and thereafter the remaining two floors were used for various purposes. On 7 June 2006 Bozcaada District office and M.Hakan Guruney. About half of the 3000 piece collection is in the permanent exhibition which covers subjects as archeological articles, fossils, maps and engravings, postal history, postcards, photography, wine and vineyard history, seashells, ethnographic objects from the post of Tenedos and Tenedians]

[The family life of the Ottoman palace and the daily lives and clothing of the children of the sultans are topics which unfortunately have not been the subjects of detailed consideration. This deficiency has not only resulted in incorrect assumptions. Deep ignorance and erroneous opinion regarding their way of life and family relationships. But has also led to the incorrect interpretation of their place in Ottoman civilization. This is so because those distinguished persons who represent a particular cultural circle must be known well. Moreover, the persons of that milieu obviously affect affect the course of history, and that milieu produces select and distinguished persons who are unique to it. Among the members of the dynasty are artist sultans, princes and princesses; the life style of the dynasty is based on a unique tradition and there are arts that are born of this tradition. We bear in mind that these works, among the wealth of the many objects in our museum, bear witness to the institution's historical and cultural identity. The Topkapt Palace Museum's Worthy expert Doc. Dr. Hulya Tezcan, known for her publications on the historical topography of the palace and its pre-Ottoman works as well as her contribution to the work Ipek, on the textile collections of the palace, now presents this invaluable research on the lives and costumes of the princes and princesses who were members of the dynasty.]

[In this new novel Ayse Kulin successfully follows through both the developments in her country during the war and the lives of Selva and Rafael in Europe. The story moves back and forth between Istanbul and Marseilles, Ankara and Cairo and Paris, to Berlin and back to Istanbul. In so doing it also highlights the courageous work of the Turkish diplomats who risked their lives to save hundreds of Jews stranded in Europe from being massacred by the Nazis...

All of Ayse Kulin's novels are page turners and this one is no exception. It is a novel about love and escape, interwoven with the history of one of Europe's most tumultuous times...]

[Part travelogue, part memoir, The Yogurt Man Cometh is the story of Kevin Revolinski's year-long adventure as an English teacher in Turkey, with all of its ups and downs and its constant surprises. From his home base working for a private school in Ankara, Revolinski relates in remarkably candid style his encounters in a foreign culture: his first experiences as a teacher, forays into classroom discipline, navigation of a new language, attempts at cross-cultural flirtation, explorations of timeless and surreal landscapes, acquisition of a taste for raki and success at making numerous lasting friendships—all told with an open mind and a sense of humor. An enjoyable read for anyone who has spent time in Turkey or who plans to do so; Revolinski's observations will resonate with those of any outsider who has come to love this country.]
