Cambodia's cross border economy : An exploratory study / K.A.S.Murshid, Tuot Sokphally
Phnom Penh : Cambodia Development Resource Institute, Development Analysis network with the support of the Rockefeller Foundation, 2005
74 p. : ill. ; 31 cm.
Working Paper 32
$.12.00

[This working paper, part of a larger regional study produced by the Development Analysis Network, focuses on Cambodia's trade environment and policy and its experience of cross border trade, particularly the role and impact of supply side factors. The organization and conduct of cross border trade are illustrated through case studies of two areas, one adjacent to Thailand and one to Vietnam. The trade in specific commodities is examined : exports of ready-made garments to Thailand and imports of shoes, vegetables and processed foods from Vietnam. Importantly, the paper studies the implications of cross border trade for household welfare, particularly for the poor.]

Documentation Series No.7
$ 40.00

[The Khmer Rouge Security (Prison) system was set up at virtually every political level throughout Democratic Kampuchea. In this monograph, author Meng-Try Ea examines the structure of the security system in the regime's infamous Southwest Zone, which the Khmer Rouge considered a model for the revolution. The chain of Terror examines the links among the systematic arrests, forced confessions, and executions at the Subdistrict, district, region, and zone levels throughout the Southwest Zone. Using extensive primary documentation and interviews with 125 victims and 18 former Southwest Zone security cadres, Mr. Ea established clear connections among the Zone's security centers (at least 153,000 people died in only 4 of the Zone's 250 security centers.) He also provides evidence to strongly suggest that Khmer Rouge leaders intentionally formulated policies (which were implemented at the lower levels) that led to crimes against humanity.]

[Throughout a rather hectic existence, in which he has played twice the role of King, Prime Minister, Chief of State of royal Cambodia, anti-imperialist contestant, twice exile, political prisoner and then leader of the national resistance against Vietnam's occupation of Cambodia, Norodom Sihanouk documents in these memoirs his decade long struggle for the independence and territorial integrity of Cambodia and peace for his beloved "little people" of his country. Written immediately after spending three years as a prisoner of the Red Khmers [1975-1979], volume one covers the period from 1940 to 1975 and from 1979 to 1982.

These memoirs include additional transcripts of correspondence and never before published manuscripts found in His Majesty's personal archives in Peking, which have been translated into English for the first time.]

[This ninth series of the National accounts bulletin presents the Gross domestic product estimates for 1993 to 2004. Two approaches were used in the estimation, namely the production and expenditure approaches. The methods utilized in this estimation round [1993-2004] are somewhat different to the previous estimation exercise [1993-2003]. There have been a number of revisions to the accounts that impact on the series back to 1993. The revisions have improved consistency between the production and expenditure series and reduced the statistical discrepancy to less than 2 percent of GDP in both current and constant prices for all years.]
