[Few populations on earth can have suffered greater trauma and hardship than the Cambodian people in the latter half of the 20th century. The recent history of Cambodia has been marked by cycles of political change, occupation, violence and isolation. The Monk, The Farmer, The Merchant, The Mother tells the true stories of the lives of four simple country people. Now old, they reflect on the events of their lives and talk about the traditions of Khmer village life. Mey Sampho tells of life in a Buddhist monastery where he acts as Deputy to the Head Monk; Chhin Muon describes the techniques of rice farming upon which rural communities depend; Nun Chhuon talks of his impoverished childhood and his lifelong struggle to set up a number of successful small businesses; and Prom Tun recounts her dedicated and determined quest to train as a mid-wife and to bring safer modern techniques of midwifery to women in rural communities.]

[Friends-The Restaurant opened its doors in February 2001 as part of a training initiative of the Cambodian non-government organization Mith Samlanh/Friends. The initiative was designed to train former street kids in the skills of hospitality in an environment that encourages self-confidence and self-expression. Our students with the support of their teachers are actively involved in all areas of the restaurant's operation including the creation of new dishes and the design of the menu. The recipes in this book are the result of their involvement and were chosen especially by our students and teachers as their favourites. Enjoy!]

[The Tonle Sap, Cambodia's Great Lake and its yearly flood is one of Southeast Asia's natural wonders. In the dry season measuring 'only' 150 by 20 kilometres, by the peak of the wet season it has expanded to some 250 kilometres long and in places more than 100 kilometres wide, increasing in depth from 1 to more than 10 metres and in area from 2,500 to about 13,000 square kilometers. This annual phenomenon has given rise not only to the great ancient empire of Angkor, but to one of the world's most productive fisheries and the last stronghold for some of the world's most endangered large waterbirds.]

Miracle During Pol Pot Regime : Sophoap's Story / Sophoap Di Stasio Phnom Penh : Meada Khmer Development Organization, c2005
x, 106 p. : ill. ; 20 cm.
99950-824-0-3
$ 18.00

[Sophoap's story begins when she her two children along with the thousands of other Phnom Penh residents are driven from their homes by the victorious Khmer Rouge soldiers on 17th April 1975. The author relates her experiences and those of the people she encountered during her subsequent ordeal, including 7 months in the tropical jungle. Together they faced a nightmare of threats of starvation and death. Many both young and old did not survive. Torture and death were commonplace. It is hard to believe these terrible acts were committed in Cambodia, a beautiful country that became a hell on earth for those terrible years when the Khmer Rouge regime held sway. However Sophoap and many others survived and with God's help eventually were able make new lives for themselves.
The story concludes with a strange encounter in the Tuol Sleng Genocide Museum in Phnom Penh in September 2005.]

A Spiritual Journey to Banteay Srei : The Sacred Temple of Shri Tribhuvan Maheswar
Phnom Penh : Angkor Media Guide, c2004
40 p. : ill. ; 18 cm.
Includes Bibliography and a Map
$ 10.00

[Originally known as the temple of "Shri Tribhuvan Maheswar", the Banteay Srei temple is located around 30 kms north-east of the famous Angkor Wat temple in Siem Reap Province of Cambodia. Dedicated to Lord Shiv, it was founded by Yajnavarah, the spiritual teacher of King Jayavarman V in A.D. 967 in Ishvarapur, in ancient Cambodia known as Kambuj.

The art and architecture of Banteay Srei have been appreciated the world over. Its soul still remains undiscovered. What was the purpose of creating this beautiful temple and how was the life within it. In this guide to Banteay Srei, along with the art and architecture, one discovers the soul of Banteay Srei and the spiritual knowledge of the ancient Khmers. Illustrated with over 60 photographs and detailed layout plans, it will be of immense interest to visitors and scholars alike.]

[On 17 April 1975, the Khmer Rouge seized power in Phnom Penh. In the three years, eight months, and twenty days of their government, they made a tabula rasa of Cambodian society and culture, forcing the people to evacuate the cities and move to the country-side. They instituted a total collectivism based on the doctrine of 'Pol Pot-ism,' the Cambodian version of fundamentalist Maoism. Assembled in this collection are the sayings that made up a "newspeak" uttered by the mouths of the Khmer Rouge cadres: slogans, maxims, advice, instructions, watchwords, orders, warnings, and threats. All were spoken in the name of the ominous Angkar-that faceless and lawless "Organization" - in order to indoctrinate, control, and terrorize the populace. These sayings have been collected from the memories of survivors throughout Cambodia between 1991 and 1995. They form the macabre, bare-bones skeleton on which hung the Khmer Rouge ideology that was thrust upon the Cambodian People. This handbook of slogans, interspread with historical commentary and contextual analysis, describes the Khmer Rouge regime and exposes the horrific foundation upon which it constructed its reign of terror.]

[Tum Teav is the tragic love story of a talented novice monk named Tum and a beautiful adolescent girl named Teav. Well-known throughout Cambodia since at least the middle of the 19th century, there are numerous versions of the story in every major genre of Cambodian culture. This monograph contains a translation by George Chigas of the Venerable Botumthera's Som's version of the poem. Chigas also examines the controversy over the poem's authorship and its interpretation by literary scholars and performers in terms of Buddhism and traditional codes of conduct, abuse of power, and notions of justice.]
