[The study of Cambodian religion has long been hampered by a lack of easily accessible scholarship. This impressive new work by Ian Harris thus fills a major gap and offers English-language scholars a book-length, up-to-date treatment of the religious aspects of Cambodian culture. Beginning with a coherent history of the presence of religion in the country from its inception to the present day, the book goes on to furnish into the distinctive nature of Cambodia's important yet overlooked manifestation of Theravada Buddhist tradition and shows how it reestablished itself following almost total annihilation during the Pol Pot period.

The book concentrates on these and illustrates how a distinctly Cambodian Theravada developed by accommodating itself to premodern Khmer modes of thought. Following the overthrow of Prince Sihanouk in 1970, Cambodia slid rapidly into disorder and violence. Later chapters chart the elimination of institutional Buddhism under the Khmer Rouge and its gradual reemergence after Pol Pot, the restoration of the monastic order's pre-Revolutionary institutional forms, and the emergence of contemporary Buddhist groupings.]

Flowers on the Cactus : AIDS and orphan care in Cambodia / Diny van Bruggen

Cambodia], 2005

[AIDS has many faces and in resource-poor countries it differs quite a bit from the picture known in affluent parts of the world. The approach to the problem is different too. This book deals with the care for some of the millions of HIV-infected people, at that time worldwide a total of 35 million, for whom antiretroviral therapy was not yet an option. It shows the need and the possibility to develop new approaches to aid, with the emphasis on an holistic approach and on sustainability.

Cambodia is not the only country, devastated after years of war and conflict. In many countries there are comparable situations, where abandoned patients die in loneliness and where many orphans are in need of loving care. This book describes one way of dealing with those huge problems.]
