The book that you are holding is a very precious document, placed in the supplementary collection's volume II that first published regarding the case of patriotic Phan Boi Chau (1867 - 1940). The book composed of 612 pages (including 1.997 questions and answers) is an interrogation dossier established by the French colonial administration in Vietnam in the year of 1925. The copy of this dossier was provided by Mrs. Nguyen Phuong Ngoc (France). The careful and serious Vietnamese translation was conducted by Mr. Dao Hung and Mr. Dang Cong Toai. The Interrogation's Dossier shown that many of the members of the Appeals Board of the French colonial administration in Vietnam each after another interrogated Phan Boi Chau, offering evidence against him provided by the Secret Intelligence Service and the Indochinese Governorate. All of this suggested that the French secret police painstakingly gathered information from many sources in order to force Phan to plead guilty. However, with the sharp intelligence and ability to judge, to process information, patriotic strong-willed Confucianist scholar Phan Boi Chau recognized the trap in the questions. He provided the French colonial Appeals Board with the "misstatements, misrepresentations" in order to protect his comrades as well as the great revolutionary cause, to preserve the fighting power and the willpower of the nation. The life of Phan Boi Chau, a patriotic strong-willed Confucianist scholar, was reinterpreted in the French colonial Interrogation's Dossier as a "penitentiary", but it was the torch that shed more light on a lots of opened places in the life of Phan Boi Chau.

Known as Quang Trung Emperor (1788 to 1792), King Quang Trung or Bac Binh Vuong, Nguyen Hue (1753 - 1792) was the second emperor of the Tay Son dynasty (1778 - 1802). He was one of the great political leaders with many excellent military and construction reforms in Vietnamese history. Nguyen Hue appeared as a bright star in the dark sky of Vietnamese society in the 18th century, then fell out. The life of King Quang Trung was a unique epic, which has been embroidered with divine legends, which contains mystery and thrilling traits ... It is a honor for the Land of Phu Xuan - Thuan Hoa (present Thua Thien –Hue province), the centre of Tay Son movement, the first capital of Vietnam after the reestablishment of unification, has played an important part in Nguyen Hue - Quang Trung's splendid career. The book titled that you are holding is the result of long-term research work of the author.

The book focuses on one of the key complex issues of the history of Vietnamese thought, namely: the “human problem”. It is the problem of so very broad content. Being aware of it, the author knew how to set a limit in a critical period, rather typical XV-XVIII centuries and focus on a number of typical thinkers (if so called) such as Nguyen Trai, Nguyen Binh Khiem, Ngo Thi Nham as well as delve into the main problems such as: “Thought about human birth and humanity”, "Thinking about family and social responsibility", “Thought about human education”, and "Thought about nature and human behavior with nature. In addition, prior to the analysis of the contemporary context and the presence of some thinkers, the author also outlines the human history of Vietnamese thought and the characteristics of traditional Vietnamese people. So it can be said that the content of the book is worthy for reference.

The Tran dynasty replaced the Later Ly dynasty (1009–1225), which started the process of Vietnamese expansion south from the Red river region at the expense of the Indianized kingdom of Champa. Shortly thereafter, Indochina was invaded by a Mongol army under the great conqueror Kublai

Khan. The Tran dynastic capital at Hanoi was sacked in 1257, but the Tran rulers repulsed this first Mongol invasion; and a united Vietnam-Champa effort repelled second and third Mongol invasions in 1284 and 1287. Tran Hung Dao, original name Tran Quoc Tuan, also called Hung Dao Vuong, (born 1229 – 1300), figure of almost legendary proportions in Vietnamese history, a brilliant military strategist who defeated two Mongol invasions and became a cultural hero among modern Vietnamese. Tran Hung Dao was one of the first great Vietnamese military strategists. His use of guerrilla warfare to harass and eventually defeat a more powerful enemy provided a model for communist guerrilla warfare in the 20th century. His mobilization of the entire Vietnamese population in the cause of national resistance to foreign invasion similarly inspired the North Vietnamese during the Indochina Wars (1946–75). His proclamation calling for national unity, along with a textbook he wrote on military strategy, became classics of Vietnamese literature. Tran Hung Dao is still an object of worship in rural areas of Vietnam, with many temples dedicated to him. This dramatic historical period has been restored by Phan Ke Binh (1875 – 1921) and Le Van Phuc (? - ?), with their heart devoted to the history of the nation, fully reproduced in the novel titled Hung Dao Vuong. They chose the writing-style of chapters appealing but still clinging closely to historical data to help readers better understand each person who participated in the events of national heroism at that time. The work as a story is told in a casual way, calm, not put on fiction, rhetoric, but each hero is still prominent in its personality & talent. The novel titled Hung Dao Vuong was first published in 1912 and is one of the rare & unique books about Vietnam's history which stuffed material that is told in a lively voice & tone of chapters' novel. Details about the life of Monsignor Tran Hung Dao and the development of the war against the Mongol invasion are reproduced honestly but equally attractive. In 2017, the book reprinted with new illustrations by painter Pham Ngoc Tan.

“This is a reprint of a book that first published in Saigon, Vietnam South, in the year of 1973. In the Preface of the book, the author writes: “At present, Vietnam lacks a philo-literature (Philo-lettres) which is a bridge between philosophy and literature that will greatly benefit Vietnamese literature: It has just opened up to the philosophy of a wider use for so many souls who are helpless without knowing what the direction of life is ... and to make Vietnamese literature more profound and rich in its enhancement; promotion of the features & characteristics. Therefore, it is necessary to prepare for that research sector. Still, it is to compensate for the nation’s lack that is important because the cultural balance is too much leaned towards literature, making light of a philosophy. The subject of philo-literature will help in repetitive equilibrium. In order to contribute to that we do not hesitate to send you some reflections and materials, most of which work in the legends, in narratives, and in their structure. We are interested in this ancient text because they are fullest connection, in other words: the philo-literature or the philosophy that lies so deep in the literary tales, they (tales) are distinctive abundant realm for the subject of philo-literature. The book is composed of three parts: The first section discussing the structure and the points related to Vietnamese Confucianism but it is a little hope of introducing some of the essence of the structure. The second part draws from the structure and analysis of some laws & rules for the interpretation of some legendary tales as well as the inference of the structure of the Vietnamese Confucianism. The third part it is attention to bring philosophy into Vietnamese literature, as a necessary direction for the nation’s literature today”.

There are a lots of publications, from picture books, documentaries to essays that imbued with emotion In covering about Saigon, a city that can be considered young. Just like any city in the world, Saigon hides in its mind thousands of memories. There is a kind of existential memory, such as an old painting, an old newspaper, a jewel; There is also a kind of spiritual memory that can only live in the nostalgia of the nostalgic mind. Regardless of the type of memory, they are gradually lost, forgotten. In early 2014, the book lovers, lovers Saigon almost feverish with the publication of Saigon Streets' Stories. The old pictures and stories seemed to be buried deep in the dust memories suddenly alive through each picture, each letter. And so on, Saigon gradually came to life through each story told by turns. Sai Gon Streets' Stories (volumes 2, 3) were introduced to readers in later years. Because there are too many stories, too many memories need to share so Streets' Stories (volume 4 that you are holding) is back to the spiritual heritage of once time's Saigon that is increasingly buried. The city is changing, many things belong to the old are no longer. Then the Saigoners gradually let it go away, bringing the knowledge of life once. Sai Gon Streets' Stories – Volume 4 tells us about the smooth hair of the South Vietnamese women, whether rich or poor, because everyone loves beauty; about the street Truong Tan Buu (now Tran Huy Lieu) is only about 700 meters long that contains hundreds of stories in it; about the beautiful people of a time: the singer Khanh Ly, artist Thanh Nga, sisters artists Thai Hang - Thai Thanh ... about Huyen Chi, mysterious author of the poem Thuyền viễn xứ (The boat in exile land) that set to music by Pham Duy; the vendors' sweet sounds in day and in night of Saigon in each street, on each road.

Maurice Durand's "Folk Painting of Vietnam" study was first published in 1960 by the 'École française d'Extrême-Orient'. This collection includes more than 400 folk artworks with detailed and thorough research, analysis, interpretation of the author. This is the result of many years of research and collection in the streets of Hanoi and neighboring areas in the Northern delta. The book is especially interesting when Vietnamese folklore was seen through the lens of a talented foreign scholar in the mid-twentieth century. Its uniqueness is reflected in the diversity of topics being exploited: daily life, wishes, blessings, religious practices, creeds, paintings illustrations of proverbs, historical illustrations, literature, four seasons, landscapes, fruits and animals. Finally, the uniqueness of the work is that Maurice Durand was the first scholar to discuss the field of folk art through the combination of a meticulous description of the process of painting, the type of painting , analyze topics and place them in a cultural and historical context, from the divine to the mundane.

In the Vietnam South historiographical works in the 1950s - 1970s of the XX century, people paid special attention to Phan Khoang (1906 - 1971), because this author has spent a lot of effort to study the history of Cochinchina. Of course, he was not the only one that interested in exploring this area. There are many other authors in the Vietnam South before the year of 1975 such as Le Kim Ngan, Nguyen The Anh, Son Nam, Nguyen Hien Le ... have had the certain success in this area. However, A History of Vietnamese DANG TRONG (Cochinchina. 1558-1777) of the author Phan Khoang, right from the beginning was soon recorded by the readership. The problem is that this work is not only the most systematic and detailed restoration of the history of the Nguyen dynasty (1802 - 1945) in particular and the history of Dai Viet in the Le – Trinh dynasties' division (1627 - 1673) in general, but this work is also based on a very large, immense, unique, rare documents & materials system. It is because writing about the history of Cochinchina not only touches on the history of the Vietnam South (Cochinchina) - the heroic and tear-sweaty history of the brave and liberated Vietnamese own people, but also touches on the history of the kingdoms of Champa and Chenla ... all these are the challenges to the history of that day and even today. It is very true to the suggestive name of the book, History of Vietnamese DANG TRONG (Cochinchina. 1558 – 1777): The Southward Expansion of the Vietnamese Nation is not only a history of a part of the national body, but also one of the most academic books of the 1960s on the basic issues & problems of the exploration of the land of the Vietnam South in almost recent 300 years. Especially, historian Phan Khoang has come to the conclusions on the nature of historical events (which are complex and overlapping) and these conclusions after nearly 50 years of real introduction into the process of “restoring the history of Dang Trong (Cochinchina)” still are referenced, suggested to historical awareness today. About the historic writing-style of Phan Khoang: it is a pen that is simple, elegant and very popular, even when it comes to the complex historical knowledge ... Thus, the history of more than 200 years that called History of Vietnamese DANG TRONG (Cochinchina) by him has a simple structure that is full of the events that do not hide the face of historical figures (from the character of the Nguyen family's lords to the image of the common people - the so-called “the people's lifestyle”); the mainstream historic pen is skillfully blended with the sharp style of the journalist, sometimes with a bit of “historic novel's flavour”. This work of large caliber, with dense place & proper names in very censored Chinese scripts was first published in the year of 1969 of the last century by Khai Tri Publishing House.

This work covers the historical period from the French occupation of Da Nang, Gia Dinh until the end of the King Salvation Movement (1858 - 1898). The 40-year historic period is illustrated in the work that you are holding entitled Anti-Invasion (History of Việt Nam from the Year of 1858 to the Year of 1898), which consists of three volumes with a specific title corresponding to the content and time of the events. Vol. 1: The Vietnam South Resistance against French Colonialism. Vol. 2: The Vietnam North Resistance against French Colonialism. Vol.3: Can Vương - King Salvation Movement. The work is made in the conditions of lack of materials and documents, but still provides a readership and research circle with credibility, which illuminates the generations of historians in Vietnam later. The work was first published in 1956

“This book was developed from a part of the doctoral dissertation by Nguyen Xuan Tho. Commenting on the work of Dr. Nguyen Xuan Tho, Maurice Beaumont (1892 – 1981), member of the French Academy of Sciences, Professor Emeritus of the Sorbonne University, on November 15th, 1966 wrote: Nguyen Xuan Tho began collecting in France and in Spain, information and documents for a doctoral dissertation, which he presented and defended at the Sorbonne University in July 1956, on “the French-Spanish Expedition in Vietnam South (Cochinchine) in 1858-1862”. The collection is a work of a historian, accurate in method, elegant in form (presentation). At that time, I was a member of the panel, responsible for the examination and evaluation of that thesis, and the thesis was Très Honorable. And Mr. Tho continued his work, with this study, on the French penetration into Vietnam (1858-1897). In this work, Nguyen Xuan Tho has devoted a large part of the official documents, much of which has not yet been revealed, to help us better understand some of the several stages in the history of relations between France and Vietnam in the last century. By including in this book the diplomatic documents, which are largely undisclosed, the author attempts to identify some of the early historical stages of the establishment of the French colonial system in Vietnam. At the same time, this work also illuminates us about the tragedy that separates this suffering land of Asia, on both political and religious grounds. This work does not focus much on the method of local administrative organization, conducted by the French in Vietnam, but only emphasizes the political, diplomatic and international dimension of this penetration. This is a very valuable work. This manuscript is unique, superior to most other historians' work". (From Internet)

The book contains six essays on the issues that have not yet been laid out in official history as important as it should be. They are: 1 - Sex and dynasty. 2 – “Money” - Literature and history. 3 - Add some money to the encyclopedia. 4 – Saint’s money and money’s saint. 5 –Westward journey. 6 – The TRAN dynasty (1225 - 1400). The issues discussed are not entirely absent in old history, but they are scattered, scanned, as convenient; ... so must “thanks” to the reader (Mt. Ta Chi Dai Truong) who quick-mindedly connected them together creating a panoramic picture. “Historic Idle Miscellanies” is a real miscellanies, but it is a sharp, wise and witty notes that the reader can not find in the official history. And for another reason, this is not a scientific study, but a literary work worthy of appreciation, accomplished in the last years of a historian, a cultural man. Ta Chi Dai Truong (1938 - 2016) is a Vietnamese American historian and academic researcher. He started the study of history and culture in the early 1960s in Vietnam South. In 1964, Ta Chi Dai Truong published his remarkable work, History of Civil War in Vietnam from 1771 to 1802. This work re-established the problem of the role of the Tay Son dynasty in Vietnamese history. Many of his later works also have such unique arguments and views. After settling in the United States in 1994, he began printing many valuable historical and cultural works. After the year of 2000s, these works were gradually printed and distributed in Vietnam such as Gods, People and Land and Vietnamese unofficial historical lessons.

The book was made in nearly a decade and 37 years after the death of the general. The 800-page book contains 40 chapters with a large volume of material that is a useful reference for anyone interested in Vietnamese history from 1945 to 1975. This is a special memoirs because the general Cao Van Khanh was one of the few generals to be directly involved in commanding the most important and fiercest campaigns of the two long-term resistance wars. He was the one who was trusted by the general Vo Nguyen Giap (1911 - 2013) and was assigned to the most difficult and fiercest tasks since the early days of the anti-French resistance (holding the position of the head of V Military Zone with the fierce front in Nha Trang, An Khe), to the Border Operation in the year of 1952, the Dien Bien Phu campaign and the Operation LAM SON 719, the Summer 1972 Quang Tri campaign, and then General Offensive in the Spring of 1975 as deputy chief of general staff of Vietnam North communist army. On the other hand, the pages regarding large military campaigns are presented from a variety of perspectives, with a multidimensional view, so the book is a valuable addition to history, even to shed a light to many dark places or places with mixed controversial opinions.

The book was written by Isabelle Müller (France), a foreign woman who wrote about her Vietnam biological mother named Dau Thi Cuc (a.k.a Loan, born in 1929). Isabelle Müller, who brought two European-Asian bloodlines (Vietnamese mother, French father), from childhood she cherished a wish to write a books about her special mother. At the age of 15, Isabelle Müller began to write down carefully notes through the mother's narrative, and 30 years later, Isabelle Müller started to pen and finish the work in just two years. Ms. Loan's life has gone through a lot of bitterness due to the gender prejudice of the Oriental Confucianism in the past. She was not able to go to school, she had to make her living, drifting from Ha Tinh to Nam Dinh, Hanoi, Bac Ninh and Hai Phong to earn a living. She was almost sold to the brothel, but wherever she went she tried honestly to earn a living. The book reached the top 5 finalists in the Kindle Storyteller Award in 2015 and ranked the best seller on Amazon (Germany). The original German translation was translated into Vietnamese by Doctor of Literature Truong Hong Quang who is currently working in Berlin (Germany). Chapters: 1 - Revolution of the heart. 2 - The war that wit neither side winning or losing. 3 – The paths of a fate. 4 - Different worlds. Epilogue.

The book was written by Nguyen Thanh Viet (pseudonym Viet Thanh Nguyen) - the first Vietnamese American writer to win the Pulitzer Prize, and many other awards of literary associations for his writing career. He was born in 1971 in Vietnam, with his family evacuated to the United States in the summer of 1975. In this story, Viet Thanh Nguyen distinguishes between migration and refugees. Formerly a refugee in the United States, he said refugees are unlike Americans and completely contradict the "American dream." In fact, any refugee always comes with fear, failure and disdain. Therefore, writers want to be able to humanize them through stories, in order to help Americans accept and be open to refugees.

The book "An Nam Stories - Records about Vietnam in ancient Chinese history" is a work of translation, compilation of sophisticated and comprehensive issues related to Vietnam was written in the ancient historical documents of China. Historically, Chinese historians have always kept records of the land they longed for, but never appropriated. In the current information age, materials become more multidimensional, things are also seen from many angles. The material in this book gives the reader the most authentic information extracted from the original source. Therefore, the views expressed are those of the ancient Chinese historians.

This is a completely fictitious historical novel, some events, things in the book is the imagination of the author himself. The reader in Vietnam is interested in this book because Hung Dao Dai Vuong Tran Quoc Tuan has been a saint in the Vietnamese mind for nearly a thousand years. King Tran Hung Dao in this book is not only a great General, but also has a passionate love. This can be seen as a complete differentiation with other literary works written about him and the Tran Dynasty. The book has received a lot of criticism, because the author describes the scene of group sex, the incest of the king, royal members and officials of Tran Dynasty which according to the author is a historical reality (not verified) expressed in literary terms.

Celebrating the 50th Anniversary of the Offensive and Rebellion of the Spring of 1968, a series of titles on this event was introduced to readers. "The Story of 1968" details the magnanimous events of these days 50 years ago, recounted by true historical witnesses, soldiers directly involved in the offensive. Tram Huong impressed with the truthful, touching stories about the women of Saigon - Gia Dinh, the woman of the South in that historic day. Through over 400 pages, the reader will easily recognize the intensity of the author's vibe when it comes to women in the blood of the 1968 Tet Offensive. The silent fate seems to have been forgotten after decades is addressed with great respect, and becomes a valuable lesson in patriotism and sacrifice.

The book systematically presents the context and general transformation of regional history as well as the internal transformation of the economic, political, social and cultural life of Vietnam and France over two centuries. At the same time, the book also introduces the context and development of the French-Vietnamese relationship, identifying the causes and consequences of the French invasion of Vietnam in the XVII-XIX centuries. The book synthesizes and systematizes the research results on trade and missionary activities of the French East India Company and the Paris Foreign Missions Society (the Society of Foreign Missions of Paris) in Vietnam; clarifying the special interaction between the Paris Foreign Missions Society and the entire performances of the French East India Company. The book also analyzes the basic economic and political transformation of the XVI – XVIII centuries in Vietnam and France; clarifying the balance of power, the change in the power mechanism between France and Vietnam, the attitude of Vietnam, the policy of Vietnam in the comparison of Asian nations, France and other European nations. The book clearly analyzes and explains why and in what context the French military intervention in the Mid-XIX century and its political and social consequences.

During the last over 60 years there have been hundreds of research works published in Vietnam and abroad dealing with the history of Vietnam from 1939-45 and with the history of the Vietnamese August Revolution. However, there has still existed a very important problem unsolved: which power was in fact overthrown by the Vietnamese during the Vietnamese August Revolution of 1945? This studies is aimed to solve this problem. Based on newly collected documents and facts, the author pointed out clearly in this work that the power that was overthrown in August 1945 were the Tran Trong Kim's Cabinet and the indigenous political system headed by it. Furthermore, the author tries to provide the readers with a detailed history of the Cabinet and then compares the existing interpretations concerning its nature, historic role and position. Finally, the author proposes a new balanced way to interpret the history of the Cabinet and the August Revolution in Vietnam. The study is really a new significant contribution to understanding of a very important period of Vietnamese modern history. It also provides an alternative way to interpret Vietnamese political history, particularly the issues concerning the political movements during the Japanese occupation and the birth of Vietnamese nation-state after the Second World War.

Research on the Vietnam - American War is generally not new. But the novelty of this work is the approach to study the issues & problems from the perspective of international relations, especially the “triple” relationship between Vietnam - the Soviet Union - China. Inheriting the research results of the predecessors, plus both rich and diverse sources at home and abroad, the author analyzes the movement of the triangular relationship between Vietnam and the two largest socialist powers - the Soviet Union and China - between 1954 and 1975. The book consists of 3 major sections (8 chapters). In Part 1, the author presents the theoretical basis of the strategic triangulation, its formation, characteristics and implications for the case of Vietnam. In Part 2, the author analyzes the basis of the formation of the Vietnam - Soviet Union - China relationship, the process of mobilization as well as the outcome of these relations through the stages of the war. In Part 3, the author assesses in a comprehensive way the effects of Vietnam - the Soviet Union – China triangular relationship on the situation of war, with each country, region and the world.

Lettering Adventures - is a book of critical essays written by the young author Hoang Dang Khoa. This is a rare collection of critical essays in Vietnam contemporary literature. More rarely, this is a critical essay that has a mixture of poetic and journalistic style. In addition to theoretical issues & problems, the author incorporates poems of his own, but not merely poems, which are a concrete illustration of critical theory. Referring to contemporary Vietnamese novels, the author argues that it is a multi-dimensional, daring world in post- modern poetic experience, and many writers have brought readers literary feasts with real full of invitations. "At Very First" of Nguyen Binh Phuong is a representative of these experiences. The novel takes the reader into an artistic maze.

It is a collection gathering a total of 24 essays that written by many distinctive authors. This is one of the experimental works covering the history of Vietnamese literature in a new approaches, following by the historical works of Dương Quảng Hàm, Nghiêm Toản, Phạm Thế Ngũ, Thanh Lãng, the group of Lê Quý Đôn, the Board of Literature - History – Geography, Institute of Literature, Hanoi Normal College, Hanoi University, Vietnam Social Science Committee ... In the professional sense, this book brings together many monographs of the literary historians aiming at lighting some light on some of the most important issues ; problems in looking at a new reference system for Vietnam literary history, from both theoretical and historical perspectives ... to create a new dimensions and approaches. The nature of literary theories and of literary history in the compiling conception of the composers is expressed separately or each other interwoven. The concept of research here does not come from a collective but from many independent writers. And this is not necessarily a literary work, “not aiming at compiling a literary history or a literary historiography”, as the authors have cautiously introduced.

From a Pentagon strategic research officer, Daniel Ellsberg has frightened the United States, and was seen by American authorities as "America's most dangerous man" when he published top-secret documents which expose the US government's lies about the Vietnam War. After reading all the 7,000 pages of top secret documents (later known as "Pentagon Papers"), Ellsberg realized that the Vietnam War was essentially a war by the United States and it has been maintained through four successive presidencies, although they all know it is an "unwinnable" war and the reason is that they do not want to "lose face". With a lot of good material, realistic and lively, the book is consistently ranked among the best sellers in the US and reprinted many times.

Hue used to be the Capital of the Nguyen dynasty, the last royal monarchy in the history of Vietnam. Although the city had undergone great sufferings in the period of modern time, it still maintains a quite original face of an ancient oriental town, the most visible aspect of which is the complex of royal constructions and traditional monuments built in romantic natural landscapes. The architecture of the Ancient Capital of Hue reflects deeply Vietnamese traditional soul. In 1993, the complex of Hue monuments was included in UNESCO list of World Cultural Heritage. Since then, Hue - a cultural and tourist center of Vietnam - has become much more attractive to not only domestic and international visitors but also historians, architects and cultural researchers. The Hue Citadel, together with the vestiges of the Hue – Old National Capital - is an invaluable heritage of the people of the whole Vietnam nation and also of the humankind. We have a responsibility to preserve it with our understanding and with heartfelt appreciation for the cultural heritage of the nation. The book that you have in hand is a compilation of the Hue Citadel of the author - a person who has attached with his life and pen to Hue. If there is the Hue Studies, so Phan Thuan An were one of the experts on the Hue Studies who that whose writings are more worth reading.

In 1971 former Cold War hard-liner Daniel Ellsberg made history by releasing the Pentagon Papers - a 7,000-page top-secret study of U.S. decision-making in Vietnam - to the New York Times and Washington Post. The document set in motion a chain of events that ended not only the Nixon presidency but the Vietnam War. In this remarkable memoir, Ellsberg describes in dramatic detail the two years he spent in Vietnam as a U.S. State Department observer, and how he came to risk his career and freedom to expose the deceptions and delusions that shaped three decades of American foreign policy. The story of one man's exploration of conscience, Secrets is also a portrait of America at a perilous crossroad. "[Ellsberg's] well-told memoir sticks in the mind and will be a powerful testament for future students of a war that the United States should never have fought" (The Washington Post). "Ellsberg's deft critique of secrecy in government is an invaluable contribution to understanding one of our nation's darkest hours" (Theodore Roszak, San Francisco Chronicle).

What is mentioned in this book, it is war. A part of the war was specially trained and trained under US policy, commonly called the Special Forces. During the Vietnam War how was that special unit trained? What did they do in the Vietnam battlefield? How did their successes and failures take place in the battlefield of South Vietnam? The content of the book contains many articles by many authors, most of whom are members of the Special Forces. Their mission is to rescue the prisoners of war, to investigate and cut off the surface communications, to organize marches into the enemy's area to control, to get intelligence on the war ... And what happened to them, to their teammates in the operations?. The stories are with different colors such as: Intrusion into the VC's rear area and encountering the enemy; Flights that looking for a place where Special Forces will be landed; Flights whose purpose was rescuing the Special Forces under the enemy fire; Enemy's attacks into Special Forces camps (Lang Vei, [Làng Vây - that near Khe Sanh?]) Kham Duc [Khâm Đức?] ...); Special Forces success & failure ... All that are conveyed very detailly by the author, sticking to the content of the problem. War is over, what happens is the past, and we can not change the present of history. It is a hope the book helps us and future generations to understand more about war from the perspective of the soldier on the other side and help us read in the research and investigation of a certain piece when writing about the history of Vietnam War. All the materials of the book were based on the documents: 1- Harry Pugh, U.S. Special Forces, C & D Enterprises, Arlington, VA. 1993. 2 - Francis J. Kelly, The Green Berets, Brassey Inc., New York, NY. 1991. 3 - Special Forces and Missions, Time-Life Books, Alexandria, VA. Dallas, Nov. 12, 1996.

This book is based on the collection of articles on two main topics: scientific research and the publication of results of scientific research. In the first part, the author tries to clarify the core concepts of "scientific research," "scientific basis," the definition of research topics, scientific ethics, and cultural science. On the aspect of announcing the results of scientific research, the author mainly focuses on the form of scientific articles published in the international journal. Due to the limited scope of the article published in the mass media, the author usually deals with issues that are general, fundamental and, on the other hand, a researcher in the field of biomedical sciences. When developing the problem as well as providing evidence, the author often relies heavily on biomedical research. However, the basic requirements, the essential contents in scientific research in general and the way of announcing results of scientific research are clearly presented by the author in a systematic manner. International, in a clear style, easy to understand, logical reasoning, rich data, reliable.

Vietnamese Coffee Love Book - The Secret to Become This Coffee Expert has shown how deep the Vietnamese coffee love is and does not hide the fear of unsustainable coffee risk in Vietnam. This is also a "Red Alert" for all those who are pursuing a career in farming, producing, trading, exporting Vietnamese coffee and also Vietnamese coffee customers. Those who are pursuing low-cost, high-yield Vietnamese coffee are self-harming Vietnamese coffee, making it unstable, contrary to the way of the world's current high-quality-price coffee. The author also emphasizes the "Green, Clean, Environment Friendly" element and hopes that the State will plan this issue in education and culture policy with the participation of the media to address environmental issues, to protect human health, to save Vietnam's agricultural products in general, Vietnamese coffee in particular. The author also popularized many life skills including drinking skills, coffee tasting or sustainable coffee development skills. The book also concerns the culture of education, the mind of the people involved in Vietnamese coffee from production to trade. All school libraries from elementary, high school to college, university should refer to this book.

The book contains articles on the topics of: Vietnam in the background of history - culture of the region; Vietnam and the world - similarities and differences; Vietnam in regional and world relations. Historically, Vietnamese historians have studied the history of Viet Nam on the principle of isolation, less connected with the region and the world. Today, in the face of globalization, historians need to study Vietnam from many angles, and many different relationships; It affirms that Vietnam's history as a nation is always a part of world history, exists and develops in its relations with other countries in the region and the world. In order to understand the history of the world, young people in Vietnam need to understand the history of their country and have a responsibility to share that knowledge with each other and broadly with international friends. Based on this exchange, the world will understand more about Vietnam as well as how Vietnam understands how the world sees itself, and its role in the history of the world.

Introduction: "Through the history of Vietnam's sovereignty over the two archipelagos of Paracel, Spratly, this book provides solid scientific evidence, including historical and legal evidence, asserting long-standing sovereignty of Vietnam for these two archipelagos. The book also presents disputes over the sovereignty of two archipelagoes initiated by China in 1909. Among the Vietnamese studies on Vietnam's sovereignty over the Paracel and Spratly archipelagos, this book is a very elaborate and systematic study. This book contributes to enhancing people's understanding of the history of sovereignty of Vietnam." Materials collected, researched and evaluated include: ancient Han documents in Vietnam, documents of feudal dynasties in Vietnam; Data from archaeological fieldwork including documents, relics and artifacts; Ancient maps of China show that the South China Sea does not quite belong to China; The Western material, in particular, is the material of the East India Company, the Portuguese, the missionaries from Europe, etc. The issues in the book are presented objectively, honestly, properly assess the history and sovereignty of Vietnam

Luu Quang Vu (April 17, 1948 - August 29, 1988) is a modern Vietnamese playwright, poet and writer. His works have left a significant mark in the hearts of Vietnamese audiences. His work emerged from the postwar years, especially in the 1980s. He spent his youth years in war, in combat and returned to live in a difficult period of the country: post-war, subsidized economy, life very difficult, miserable. Luu Quang Vu's dramas, short stories and poetry are realistic and humane, as well as presenting events at every stage of his life. With a young age of 40, he is the author of nearly 50 plays and most of his plays are successfully toured by the troupes under the direction of many famous directors. He died at the age of 40 in a car accident, leaving a huge and precious legacy for the Vietnamese theater. Foreword: "The book "Finding literary linguistics" consists of 4 parts: 1 / Argument - Literary critic of the South before 1975 - Literary heritage of the country. 2 / Arguments - literary criticism of the innovation period from a perspective 3 / About some modern Vietnamese poetry phenomenon. 4 / For some contemporary Vietnamese prose phenomenon. The book reflects the thinking of the writer in the process of perceiving, deciphering literary phenomena, in order to find out the values behind the discourse expressed by the writer. Authentic literature is a literature directed at people and for human beings with the deepest human values. The creator of literature, whether in any field, must not be separated from those human values. Therefore, to find the hidden language of literature with me is also a journey to find the human values that are indispensable elements of all literature today and tomorrow."

The Protohistory is an important period in the history of the formation and development of South Vietnam. This was the time when the first inhabitants conquered and settled in the Mekong Delta. Historical records of this period are almost found in the ancient bibliographies of neighboring countries. These documents tell us of the existence of one of the earliest ancient countries in Southeast Asia - Funan Kingdom. By the end of the nineteenth century, with the development of archeology, the remains of ancient culture under the sediment of the delta were discovered for the first time. This book is a systematic work of archaeological discoveries in South Vietnam, compiling the achievements of French scholars before 1975 by L. Malleret, G. Coedes ... and new discoveries after 1975 by archeologists of Vietnam.

The communal house of the Rông is one of the typical and unique cultural heritages of some ethnic groups in the Truong Son mountainous range - Vietnam Central Highlands, especially in the Northern area of Vietnam Central Highlands and mountainous areas of Quang Nam, Thua Thien – Hue provinces. The communal house of the Rông has many functions that are similar to the le ĐÌNH (the village communal house in Vietnam North Red River's Delta), to the headquarters of the village administration, to the facilities of belief; religious activities, to the guest houses, to the clubs. It is possibly more than that, the communal house of the Rông also is the place where life experiences is transferred from one generation to the next, and is the center where the firm community ties are cemented. As in a special tour, this book in turn takes you through and stops at 66 communal house of the Rông, allowing you to take part in both their inside and outside life of the communal houses of the Rông. Readers can explore, learn, compare, reflect on the unique cultural nuances of this wonderful Central Highlands. The book takes us from one ethnic community to another, from village to village. At the same time, the book will show the richness and diversity of designs, of decorative motifs, of the structure of the house, and also help us understand more deeply the common characteristics which are identical in the long-standing cultural traditions of many ethnic groups in Truong Son mountainous range - Central Highlands (Tay Nguyen). The book also not avoided the new moves and challenges posed to the communal house of the the Rông in particular and the Central Highlands culture in general, giving the reader a chance to approach and think about introducing new elements, modern and manifold that are happening in real social life in this traditional land.

The workshop on theme of "Models of Special Economic Zones in Vietnam in the Context of International Economic Integration" was held on April 28 2017 by the University of Economics and Law (Ho Chi Minh City). The discussion papers that presented at the workshop pointed out the current situation and constraints in developing models of economic zones in Vietnam. For example, economic zones mainly are located in coastal areas and in much close distance each other so do not create resonance but compete and pollute the marine environment; the planning work has not been paid much attention; policy mechanism is weak ... From this, it is suggested that: it is necessary to clarify specific mechanisms for special zones, which require domestic and international tax incentives based on international commitments; put Can Gio economic zone into a special zone; international experience and lessons for Vietnam to change the mode of election in order to exercise democratic rights in the special economic zone model, while streamlining the apparatus to increase business-doing freedom...

Pham Quynh (1892-1945, pseudonym Thuong Chi) was a great Vietnamese journalist, writer and cultural activist in the early twentieth century. Thuong Chi Literature Collection is a book selected by Pham Quynh himself from articles he wrote in Nam Phong magazine (1917-1934). The book "small" is not really small, with the collection of articles of all kinds (translation, essay, criticism, journalism...), across the fields (culture, literature, education, politics, economics, philosophy...), introducing ancient East-West doctrines, as well as discussing contemporary hot topics (national language, national education...). His calm and cautious expression is reflected in the pages of writing with clear thinking, clear style and still sparkling with subtle, witty and surprisingly accurate comments. In the history of Vietnam, Pham Quynh belonged to a small number of writers who left a great cultural career, both in terms of ideology and the amount of his work. This book is only a small part of the tens of thousands of pages written throughout his dedicated career.

In this book, Ambassador Robert Hopkins Miller, an experienced diplomat from Southeast Asia, presents the early history of US-Vietnam relations. In 1787, President Thomas Jefferson first expressed the concern about the area - then known as Cochinchine / Cochinchina - for the purpose of trading rice. From the beginning, Miller has followed the ups and downs of US diplomatic, economic and strategic concerns in Vietnam. As evidenced by numerous excerpts from contemporary letters and documents, this study shows the complex relationship of Vietnam with China, the increasing trade relations of Western powers, and the influence of Japan's expansionist policy in this country. The chapters leading up to World War II are especially rich in information as it presents the responsibilities of national leaders in recognizing their clear political goals, among other things.

In the years of 1987 - 1988, the Chinese military mobilized dozens of warships, armed with modern weapons operating in high frequency in the South China Sea and landed and occupied the reefs such as: Chũ Thập, Châu Viên, Ga Ven, Tư Nghĩa,... (respectively in English: Fiery Cross Reef, Cuarteron Reef, Gaven Reef, Hughes Reef ...) in the Spratly Islands of Vietnam. The climax of this robbery attack was the assault on the group of Gạc Ma, Cô Lin, Len Đao (respectively in English: Johnson Reef, Collins Reef, Lansdowne Reef) on March 14, 1988, firing and sinking three Vietnamese Navy transport ships, killing sixty Vietnamese Navy men in charge of building and defending Vietnam sovereignty over Gạc Ma (Johnson Reef) belonged to TRƯỜNG SA (Spratly) Archipelago of Việt Nam. In that unbalanced battle, the soldiers of the Vietnamese navy were courageous, resiliently forming an immortal circle, standing in front of the guns of the enemy, accepting sacrificing themselves to assert sovereignty over the sacred sea of the country. In order to honor and forever remember the officers and soldiers of the heroic Vietnamese People's Navy who have been bravely fought and bravely sacrificed themselves to protect the sovereignty of the sea, and at the same time, in order to help a large readership more clearly understand this event, First New - Tri Viet Company, in many years has organized the publication of the Book of Gạc Ma (Johnson Reef) - The Immortal Circle in the hope of re-enacting the heroic moment in the group of Gạc Ma, Cô Lin, Len Đảo (Johnson Reef, Collins Reef, Lansdowne Reef) on March 14, 1988. In order to make this book, First News - Tri Viet sought to contact and organize many trips to many localities met with returning witnesses from Gạc Ma (Johnson Reef), with the relatives of martyrs' families to collect materials, pictures and record the woeful and majestic memories, thereby outlining the picture of Gạc Ma (Johnson Reef) – The Immortal Circle. This book was made with the participation of 68 people, including military generals, historians, journalists, Gạc Ma (Johnson Reef) veterans, undergoing hundreds of revisions, 48 edition and 14 publishers during four years of licensing. The book was officially released on July 10, 2018, by First News - Tri Viet Company.

The book is translated and published from French original Le Vietnam. Une histoire de Transferts Culturels (Demopolis Press, Paris, 2015) edited by Hoai Huong Aubert-Nguyen and Michel Espagne. The book consists of 21 discussion papers selected from ones that delivered at the French-Vietnamese / European-Asian Cultural Transfer Seminar held at the Paris-based College of Advanced Teachers (ENS) and the French National Library (BNF) from 4th to 6th June 2014. The book's discussion papers belonged to various disciplines: Vietnamese studies; art history and literature; social science; archives ... but all are aimed at a common focus of the topic of cultural transfer, which is applied to Vietnamese space. In this book, Vietnam is chosen as a typical reference system of cultural transfer, especially at the time of its exposure to the West, particularly to the French. That is to say, transfer phenomena were mainly studied in relation to France during the colonial period. The papers selected in this book are organized in five sections: 1 - Theory and history. 2 - History of thoughts. 3 – Building knowledge. 4 - Literature and art. 5 - Vietnamese bookcases in the National Library of France.
