Golden Dragon and Purple Phoenix : The Chinese and Their Multi-Ethnic Descendants in Southeast Asia / Lee Khoon Choy

Many books have been written about the Chinese in Southeast Asia, but very few, if any, are written specifically about the multi-ethnic descendants of Chinese immigrants. Golden Dragon and Purple Phoenix is not about the diaspora per se of Chinese in Southeast Asia but about the impact of intermarriage between Chinese immigrants and the natives, that is, the intermingling of blood and the offsprings from such unions — the influence they wielded on the society and environment they chose to live in. It is also about how they rose to high positions and their contributions to their societies. Some rose to become kings or king makers, others to become presidents, prime ministers, senior ministers, prominent businessmen, or religious leaders. Some openly declared their ancestry and are proud of their Chinese DNA, while others have forgotten their heritage and in their fervour to prove their allegiance to their country of birth, dissociate themselves, assertively through violence, indirectly through economic sanctions and various other means. In short, the multi-ethnic Chinese descendants form a unique community with unique cultural genes of its own, and these fresh and rarely-known stories about them in Golden Dragon and Purple Phoenix will be a good resource for historical researchers as well as fascinating reading materials for readers in general.

Singapore Street Names: A Study of Toponymics / Victor R. Savage & Brenda S.A. Yeoh

Marshall Cavendish Editions, Singapore 2013

9789814408356

$ 32.00 / PB

Place names tell us much about a country — its history, its landscape, its people, its aspirations, its self-image. The study of place names, toponymics, unlocks the myriad interlocking stories that are encoded in every street and landmark. In Singapore, the coexistence of various races, cultures and languages, as well as its history of colonisation, immigration and nationalism, have given rise to a complex tapestry of place names. Alkaff Quay, Coleman Bridge, Ann Siang Hill, Bukit Merah — how did these places get their names? Nee Soon or Yishun? Serangoon Road or Tekka? First published in 2003 as Toponymics, this updated and expanded edition of the book incorporates a wealth of new findings, from archival research and interviews, and sets out to answer these questions — and any question that might be asked about the origin, meaning or significance of place names in Singapore.

This compilation was inspired by an international symposium held on the Legon campus over three days in September 2003, hosted by the CODESRIA African Humanities institute Programme. Under the broad theme 'Canonical Works and Continuing Innovation in African Arts & Humanities,' speakers from all over the world were assembled in a dozen panels soaring one after another in a sustained celebration of cross-disciplinary reflection. We are often too overworked, too overstretched and under-resourced, to listen and respond to one another with any regularity across our disciplinary divides.

In Consequence, our students altogether miss learning as first-hand witnesses to the ongoing analytic disputes and intellectual contests that are so essential to the productivity of any academic hive.

This collection has been compiled as a possible antidote to our collective alienation. It is designed for random browsing, as if one were attending a fast-paced symposium of first rate, creative minds.

We have reprinted classics that are decades –old, papers that have generated whole industries of discourse in their wake; because even the most distinguished scholars among us lack ready access to world-renowned publications outside their own fields. We have also included the work of relatively unknown theorists, specialists and literary activists in Ghana, Kenya, Nigeria, South Africa, Uganda and elsewhere, whose contributions to cutting edge scholarship are condemned to solitary confinement, based as they are on the silenced side of the digital divide....
