This book is a tribute honouring Mwalimu Julius Kambarage Nyerere as a visionary of the African revolution, and an inspiration for freedom, unity and development. He speaks to us here with his wisdom through abstracts from his many statements and speeches and through his expressive body language and facial expressions in images that cover a period of more than 40 years, ranging from his village in Butiama to the world stage. He was a beacon of leadership against global imperialism at a time when the infrastructure to fight against tyranny through education, military training and diplomatic support was as scarce as freedom itself.

Sovereignty and self-determination, economic and agricultural independence, strong strategic and military alliances with neighbours and allies were just a few of the many lessons left by Mwalimu as his legacy to present and future generations. These are the pillars upon which independent African nations can construct a strong and stable, united house.

"The Forest Dames is a pulsating story about the devastating effects of war, in which AdaOkere Agbasimalo dwells on the sordid consequences of civil war on humanity and the tortuous effort to achieve normalcy. It features Deze, a young girl with a keen mind, who lived with her parents in a typical African setting and felt the pain of war. As an adulthood, the memories remain intact, haunting her." The Forest Dames is a creative non-fiction about mothers and daughters during the Biafran war. The central force of the narrative is the suffering of women and children, and the desire of the characters to uphold their dignity as women. Girls were routinely captured to become bad mates for soldiers. A group of women, including the narrator's mother, decided to guard against this. This book is a nonjudgmental and balanced story which the narrator's alter ego now tells in flashback

Le 17 Janvier 2012, le nord du Mali est envahi par des Touaregs irrédentistes ayant fui la Libye où Mouammar Khadaffi a été tué. Suivra un coup d'Etat le 21 Mars 2012. Peu après, les Français de Mopti et région sont sommés par leur ambassade de se rapatrier sur Bamako. L'auteure envoie alors un même mail pour rassurer tous ses proches. C'est le début d'une longue correspondance, au gré des événements, de leurs ressentis, des conséquences au quotidien, en particulier à Mopti, devenue zone tampon. Un cycle incessant d'espoirs naissants puis d'espoirs déçus... Une foule de questionnements sur les choix politiques, militaires, socio-économiques... des interrogations sur le dit « développement »... Une nouvelle conscientisation de la jeunesse... Cet ouvrage s'inscrit dans un diptyque dont l'autre partie s'intitule : « Mopti, l'Incorruptible ».

1991 : année de la révolution démocratique au Mali. Dès le 30 décembre 1990, le ton est donné par la gigantesque marche unitaire de demokarasi, i sanbè sanbé ! En janvier 1991, les associations de jeunes, d'élèves et d'étudiants, les associations politiques et des droits de l'homme, les syndicats battent le pavé pour réclamer plus de justice sociale, plus de liberté. Ce sont ces marches de revendication démocratique qui vont aboutir, le 26 mars 1991, à la chute du général Moussa Traoré, au pouvoir depuis 23 ans.

Militantes idéalistes, mères de famille solidaires du combat de leurs enfants, anonymes déterminées, les femmes ont été à l'avant-garde. Principales victimes de la répression du vendredi 22 mars, "le vendredi noir", elles ont payé un lourd tribut à l'avènement de la démocratie. Si mars est le mois où l'on célèbre la lutte des femmes du monde entier, mars 1991 aura été incontestablement celui du martyr et du triomphe des femmes maliennes.

Un quart de siècle après, que savons-nous de cet engagement au féminin ? Que sont devenues ces héroïnes ? Pour répondre à ces questions, Cauris livres donne à 25 d'entre elles. Elles racontent l'insurrection de Mars 1991. Ce travail est un travail militant dont le but est de raviver notre mémoire collective et d'apporter de la matière à l'histoire du Mali.

Kuyaté, la force du serment repose opportunément la problématique de la tradition orale comme source de l'histoire africaine. Au moment où les fétichistes de l'écriture reviennent à la charge, arguant que le passé lointain de l'Afrique est absent du fait de l'inexistence de document écrit (sic), Kuyaté, la force du serment apporte la magistrale démonstration que la parole ancienne est en pays mandingue un merveilleux réservoir de connaissances historiques, de savoir-faire et de savoir-être.

This book translated from Arabic is interested in the work of a Muslim scholar who lived in the 19th century in Ségou and who is the grand father of the translator, commentator and editor.

Le commentateur de ce livre est Thierno Hady Thiam, petit-fils et homonyme de l'auteur. Très tôt, le commentateur Thierno commence ses études coraniques avec son père Cheick Oumar Thiam, imam de la mosquée de Darsalam (Bamako) et fils de l'auteur du 19^e siècle dont il est question ici. Puis il fréquente la medersa An-NajahwalFalah de son oncle Boubacar Thiam à Ségou avant d'aller poursuivre ses études supérieures d'Arabe en Tunisie et en Arabie Saoudite où il obtient des distinctions académiques. Depuis son retour au Mali, il enseigne l'arabe dans les instituts islamiques et certains lycées de l'Etat. Thierno Hady est très connu dans le milieu islamique pour ses activités culturelles et de recherche.

Can Anything Good Come Out of History? is a collection of fourteen Lectures and Papers on Nigerian History, spread over the years 1977 to 2013. Like his earlier book - History, The Historian And The Nation, the Voice of A Nigerian Historian, the burden of the lectures put together in this book is to demonstrate that History is not the useless discipline it is so often portrayed to be in our nation: that Nigeria and all her component entities, and the loyalties attached to them are products of History; that whether we realise it or not, it is History that provides that understanding of our country's multifarious peoples and their cultures which is so crucial for peaceful co-existence. We need the knowledge which only History can provide to enable us overcome ethnic prejudice and arrogance, as well as enable us promote an attitude of "live and let live". History may not prepare those who study it for a specific profession. Perhaps that is why our nation has, for so many years, neglected the promotion of the study of Nigerian History, as well as the history of other lands. Through the Lectures and Papers put together in this book, the author makes bold to declare - like another historian had done years back - that History, more than virtually every other subject, provides the knowledge for effective participation in the most crucial profession of all - that profession in which we all must be involved - THE PROFESSION OF CITIZENSHIP. That is, the value of this collection of Lectures and Papers on Nigerian History which is in your hands. Read, ponder over what you read, and then proceed to answer the question which constitutes the main title of the book, namely, Can Anything Good Come Out of History?

Migration from Malawi to South Africa : A Historical & Cultural Novel : Real-life Experiences / Harvey C. Chidoba Banda

Since the discovery and exploitation of minerals like gold, diamond and copper in South Africa, Zimbabwe and Zambia in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries, Malawi has played the role of a labour supplier. Malawians were attracted by the relatively higher wages obtaining in the South African mines up to the period of the decline in mine migrancy at the end of the 1980s. Following this decline, a cross-section of Malawians continued to emigrate to South Africa to seek various jobs in the burgeoning informal sector and also for trade purposes. Migration from Malawi to South Africa sheds light on the problems that labour migrants and traders encounter as they are 'toing' and 'froing' between Malawi and South Africa in pursuit of their respective goals. It shows that migration, which initially was exclusively done for wage employment, is becoming more complex by the day. This is a result of the infusion of elements of commercial migration, smuggling and human trafficking. The book advances the argument that the numbers of migrants to South Africa increased in the post-1994 period partly as a result of mal-administration by the successive democratically-elected governments in Malawi. This development weakened Malawi's otherwise promising economy and impoverished the rural masses. The book 'sees' forlorn hope in the future of labour migrants and traders, unless the Malawi Government starts to genuinely have the welfare of the populace at heart! The book is relevant and accessible to policy-makers, university and college students interested in migration studies, general readers and migrants, themselves.

Africa in the Colonial Ages of Empire : Slavery, Capitalism, Racism, Colonialism, Decolonization, Independence as Recolonization, and Beyond / Tatah Mentan

Words like "colonialism" and "empire" were once frowned upon in the U.S. and other Western mainstream media as worn-out left-wing rhetoric that didn't fit reality. Not anymore! Tatah Mentan observes that a growing chorus of right-wing ideologues, with close ties to the Western administrations' war-making hawks in NATO, are encouraging Washington and the rest of Europe to take pride in the expansion of their power over people and nations around the globe.

Africa in the Colonial Ages of Empire is written from the perspective that the scholarly lives of academics researching on Africa are changing, constantly in flux and increasingly bound to the demands of Western colonial imperialism. This existential situation has forced the continent to morph into a tool in the hands of Colonial Empire. According to Tatah Mentan, the effects of this existential situation of Africa compel serious academic scrutiny. At the same time, inquiry into the African predicament has been changing and evolving within and against the rhythms of this "new normal" of Colonial Empire-Old or New. The author insists that the long and bloody history of imperial conquest that began with the dawn of capitalism needs critical scholarly examination. As Marx wrote in Capital: "The discovery of gold and silver in America, the extirpation, enslavement and entombment in mines of the aboriginal population, the beginning of the conquest and looting of the East Indies, the turning of Africa into a warren for the commercial hunting of black-skins, signaled the rosy dawn of the era of capitalist production. These idyllic proceedings are the chief moment of primitive accumulation." Africa in the Colonial Ages of Empire is therefore a MUST-READ for faculty, students as well as policy makers alike in the changing dynamics of their profession, be it theoretically, methodologically, or structurally and materially.

Patriotism and Nation Building : Perspectives from the Life and Utterances of Ephraim Amu / Philip Tetteh Laryea

The deepest and most significant aspect of the heritage of any nation lies in her people. A people's dignity, worth and value can be measured by their human resources. More important than mineral wealth, more significant than financial capital and of more value than land and property, are the leaders of thought and character, that a communal or social group can lay claim to. Towering above the tallest buildings, reaching deeper than the roots of ancient trees, are society's icons, doyens of a people's life and culture. Often unrecognized in their lifetime, sometimes vilified or else silenced by political forces, these persons represent a people's legacy and gift to humankind. Such was Dr. Ephraim Amu, native of Peki Avetile, son of West Africa's "Gold Coast", scholar, teacher, musician, ethicist, and preacher. In this book, Prof. Laryea has by careful and detailed research, rendered an invaluable service to posterity in unearthing and making available the life, works and public speeches of Dr Ephraim Amu. Thoughtfully selecting over sixty of Amu's sermons spanning a period of 50 years (1937 - 1986), Laryea enables us to more deeply enter the inner thoughts and expressions of one of Ghana's most illustrious sons, thus allowing us into the veritable engine room of the composer of Ghana's national song, "Yân ara asase ni", crafted by Amu in 1929. In doing so he has also opened up and thrown light upon very significant periods in the nation's history.

Although there has been a number of studies on black resistance, very few of these have focused exclusively on such a wide range of resistance campaigns and strategies within a single volume. One of the central arguments of this study is that from as early as the sixteenth century, when Europeans attempted to systematically exploit Africans, black people have engaged in a variety of organised and sustained resistance campaigns to assert their independence and identity.

This book examines some of the different strategies employed by black people in Africa and the Diaspora in response to European domination and exploitation. Drawing upon research from scholars based at the University of Cape Coast in Ghana and the University of the West Indies, Jamaica, this collection of original essays covers the academic disciplines of African and Caribbean history, literature, politics and psychology.

Mohammed Chris Alli is a retired Nigerian Army Major General who served as Chief of Army Staff from 1993 to 1994 under General Sanni Abacha's regime and was military governor of Plateau State Nigeria from August 1985 to 1986 during the military regime of General Ibrahim Babangida. Many years later, he was appointed interim administrator of the state during a 2004 crisis in the state following ethno-religious killings in Shendam, Yelwa Local Government. In this anthology, organized as a symposium on Mohammed Christopher Alli's work, he is identified as one of those critical and rational thinkers, philosophers, albeit, a General in the Nigerian Army, whose work finds a befitting logical space in the contemporary African philosophical tapestry. The book also captures the elements of military misrule in Nigeria and its undue influence on the body polity; it is a critical survey of past military misadventures, and a satire against false federalism, it is a firm warning against future corruption and impunity in the military.
