Au moment où les États, particulièrement africains sont soumis à des injonctions toujours renouvelées des différents acteurs internationaux, au moment où différentes politiques publiques internationales sectorielles (éducation, environnement, santé, etc) et globales (développement, croissance économique) se succèdent au rythme des événements sociaux conjoncturels (faim, pauvreté, sida, réchauffement climatique) dans l'agenda international et dans le paysage des Etats africains, il nous a semblé opportun de marquer un temps d'arrêt et de questionner le chemin parcouru par une politique publique sectorielle au Cameroun : l'enseignement supérieur.

Réunissant une équipe pluridisciplinaire dans le cadre du programme de recherche « Groupe National de Travail » (GNT) du Codesria, cet ouvrage scrute les dynamiques de l'enseignement supérieur depuis le processus de réformes entamées en 1993. Engagées sur plusieurs axes tels que la raison d'être de l'enseignement supérieur, les dynamiques internes, les rapports avec l'environnement, les différentes contributions démontrent les interconnexions entre les différents aspects de l'enseignement supérieur entre eux ainsi qu'avec les autres espaces sociaux. Elles lèvent aussi le voile sur sa nature profonde du système et soulignent ses évolutions, ses impasses et ses contradictions.

This book, which brings together a multidisciplinary team within the framework of the Codesria "National Working Group" (GNT) research program, examines the dynamics of higher education since the process of reforms begun in 1993. Engaged on several axes such as reason to be of higher education, internal dynamics, relations with the environment, the various contributions demonstrate the interconnections between the different aspects of higher education among themselves as well as with other social spaces. They also raise the veil about its profound nature of the system and underline its evolutions, its dead ends and its contradictions.

Democracy involves the process of changing custodians of power from time to time in order to maintain a useful equilibrium of performance and accountability. But the post-colonial narrative in most African countries has been one of strongmen and power brokers entrenching themselves deeply across the crucial levels of society. The past few years have however seen citizens become more aware, and some revolt against these systems.

How To Win Elections in Africa explores how citizens, through elections can uproot the power structures. Using examples from within and outside Africa, this book examines the past and present to map a future where the political playing field is level and citizens can rewrite existing narratives.

Politicians have been handed their notice: It is no longer business as usual.

This collection of essays chronicles a country's fourth attempt at democratic governance after many years of military dictatorship. Through his personal experiences and observations, Báyò Olúpohùndà captures the reality of Nigeria's socio-political environment at the turn of the millennium, the collapse of dignity in service, and the ubiquitous "Nigerian factor" that creates entitlement. Are You Not A Nigerian? examines the lost opportunities, the disappointment of successive administrations, and the dilemma of a nation at a crossroads.

Dr. Olusegun Mimiko competed in the gubernatorial elections on April 14, 2007, against the incumbent Olusegun Agagu. The Independent Electoral Commission INEC, departing from the norm, announced election results in Abuja, the federal capital, declaring the incumbent the winner. Mimiko contested this decision at the election tribunal and was adjudged winner at the tribunal and the Court of Appeal on February 23, 2009. The Appeal Court, like the court of first instance, cited massive irregularities in the 2007 election, and ordered that Agagu be replaced by Mimiko as governor. Mimiko then became the first and only member of the Labour Party to win gubernatorial office in Nigeria. Governor Olusegun Mimiko contested and won re-election on October 20, 2012, for a second term, making him the first governor in Ondo State to win a second term election. Mimiko stood in that election as the Labour Party candidate for Nigeria's Ondo State and polled the highest votes.

The court drama that pitched Dr. Rahman Olusegun Mimiko against Dr. Olusegun Kokumo Agagu lasted for two years, 2007 to 2009. It consumed the energy of hundreds of lawyers and the attention of millions of Nigerians. On the one hand was the Mimiko team, considered the under-dog in the struggle, with only the rightness of their cause as their succour, and their belief that somehow, God was on their side. On the other hand was the Agagu team, the incumbent power supported by federal might and endless resources in money, material and confidence.

Ce livre est une vue d'intérieur, un décryptage sans complaisance de la marche politique du Togo vers la démocratie, les 25 dernières années. Spécialiste en gouvernance et militant indépendant pour le changement, Dany Ayida propose une analyse des enjeux politiques au Togo ainsi que des obstacles qui ont empêché ce pays ouest-africain de jouir pleinement de la gouvernance démocratique. Cette vue d'intérieur qui ne manque pas de parti pris, car dit l'auteur « il est impossible de ne pas prendre position au Togo », a des allures d'un projet politique qui préfigure les avantages d'un Togo démocratique et réconcilié.

The late Welshman Hadane Mabhena, was a leading Zimbabwe African People's Union (ZAPU) activist, the political party led by Joshua Nkomo. He was among the pioneers of the liberation struggle in Nkayi and Matabeleland North. He faced incarceration in various prisons in Rhodesia. He was detained in Gonakudzingwa near the border with Mozambique. A loud and fearless voice for the voiceless, uMawelishi, as he was affectionately known among his colleagues and admirers, was declared a national hero when he passed on. While the focus of the book is on an individual, Welshman Mabhena, it also illuminates the times, both good and bad, that were an integral part of Welshman Mabhena's life.

Prime Witness Change and Policy Challenges in Buhari's Nigeria is essentially a product of the author's observations, exchanges with his various interlocutors in and out of government, and Nigerians and non-Nigerians alike, during the first year of the Buhari administration, 2015-2016. The decision to put this volume together, and indeed, the compelling reason for articulating the policy recommendations, critiques and views herein, derived in his personal belief that as a member of the Nigerian attentive public, we owed it as a civic duty to our posterity to speak up, regardless of whether anyone is listening. Such undertaking will no doubt, enrich our national conversation of critical issues and in the long run, vindicate us in the eyes of our posterity.

This book brings together articles from different authors who have diverse experiences in peacebuilding. The discussions draw attention to the vital role of good governance in political structures and also note that the church has a prophetic role to play as she is invited to stewardship of herself and others in the concrete realization in history of God's will of abundant life for humans and for the entire cosmos.

Further, the articles underline the importance of engaging the youth in social transformation processes while empowering them with the necessary skills for gainful employment. Political leadership and good governance ought to be grounded on sustainable economic structures, human rights, citizen participation, accountability, reconciliation and the love of God.

This book would provide useful insights into the system of governance and how to ensure that the administrative order is followed to ensure effective and efficient implementation of the policy decisions of the government by civil service. Furthermore, it would give public servants not only a basic knowledge of administration in The Gambia, but also enhance their reflections on the anomalies and distortions on how government works in The Gambia.

Perspectives on New Gambia is a detailed chronicle of the ebb and flow of The Gambia's first-ever democratic transition of power. The First Republic was brought to an end in a bloodless military coup on Friday, 22 July 1994 that led to the political ascendancy of the then young military officer Lieutenant Yahya Jammeh. After two years in charge as a military leader, he ran for President in 1996 and went on to win three successive presidential terms until Friday, 2 December 2016 when he was defeated at the polls by an opposition coalition, led by Adama Barrow. Although Yahya Jammeh initially conceded defeat and later retracted his concession, he finally gave up power on Friday, 20 January 2017. In between these two monumental shifts, The Gambia tottered on the brink, threatening to tip over into an abyss. This book is a living witness to the mood and flavour of that turbulent moment in the political evolution of The Gambia. Divided into four interrelated sections, Perspectives on New Gambia traces the history of Coalition 2016, explores the political impasse and post-election peace in The Gambia, critically examines the first 100 Days of the Coalition Government, discusses public expectations and proffers strategic recommendations for re-building The Gambia.
